

PRIVACY POLICY

www.samruddhi.com is committed to protecting our customers' personal information. All vital information is transmitted in an encrypted format.

We will store your personal information if you create an account with us, but this information will be used only by us or our allied associates as described below in our privacy policy.

At Samruddhi, we are committed to providing efficient customer service and outstanding value for all our products and services, while respecting and protecting the privacy of our customers. To serve you better, we may collect and maintain certain personal information about the client, provided by them e.g. product and service preferences, address and other information. Under no circumstances do we sell or rent this information to other businesses. We strictly protect and enforce the confidentiality of this information. However we may share the information with allied associates for promotion & advertising of business, execution of orders, and the like. We respect your privacy and seek to protect the trust you place in us at Samruddhi.